THE SANTA FE STILL SPREADS.

It has been officially announced that Mr. Manvel, for the Santa Fe system, has bought both the Colorado Midland and the Colorado Western. The first road runs out through the mountains from Colorado Springs to Glenwood Springs, and the second runs from the latter place to Ogden. The purchase gives the Santa Fe another line to San Francisco, practically, and cuts the Rio-Grande road proper and the Rock Island off from their western connection for

It looks very much like the Santa Fe had determined upon owning a line from the Atlantic to the Pacific as she already owns one from Chicago to the gulf, and that in this far reaching scheme its management is being backed by the Baring brothers of London, who slipped in to save the road two years ago. If this be true the Santa Fe will become a gigantic affair, independent of all pools, all traffic associations and railway combinations. The road is now practically so and in the very near future will tell all the other Missouri river and Chicago lines to whistle for themselves,
